

073118Response to Buchanan's "Will Tribalism Trump Democracy"?

Pat,

Again a Beautifully written, historical driven, priceless lesson on how not to destroy a nation "And if we cannot live together amicably, secession from one another, personally, politically, and even territorially, seems the ultimate alternative". For me I see everything in the end of your last statement, inevitable. When out of frustration of not drowning Trumpism, results in the uneducated chaotic left's protests escalating into violence, we will then see the somewhat educated gun toting and bible carrying far right responding in a likewise manner. And we will have a Revolution. And by that Revolution, the gun toting bible carriers will win. The results will not be a democratic republic nation but something else. And we would certainly lose "One Nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." and cease to be "A Shinning City upon a hill. And the great experiment will finally fail.
