

11/28/2015 Pat Buchanan: Stumbling to War with Russia?

He Said: She Said

Senator Rand Paul: Clear, Concise, and Spot On with the American People

He Said:

“I think we should talk about politics for a minute. Shouldn't we at least talk about what idiots we have in the Republican Party running for president who want to have a red line and a no-fly zone in Syria. What a recipe for disaster. But you know what the interesting thing is, Hillary Clinton agrees with all of them. All of them beating their chest to see who is the most likely to get us involved in a war that really, these people have been at war for a thousand years. You think somehow we're going to solve their problems?”

Hilary Clinton: Not so hypothetically speaking, is a “Half Baked” clueless, diva.

She Said:

Clinton has called for the establishment of a “no-fly zone” in Syria which would be patrolled by American warplanes tasked with preventing Assad from using his helicopter gunships and jets to bomb his own people.

If necessary, the U.S. warplanes would have the authority to shoot down Syrian aircraft. When asked if she would be ready to order a Russian aircraft to be shot down, Clinton has sidestepped the question: “Well that's a hypothetical that I think there are many steps you have to go through and decisions you have to make before you ever get to that.”
