

Is the GOP Risking Suicide?

Pat,

Here is the way I see it. GOP, Democratic Party, one in the same, owned by the same people. Same for the media. Trump, as well as Cruz and maybe Hillary cannot be trusted to follow the established plan that was set in motion back in the early nineties. These people see democracy as a nuisance. You know It takes a lot of energy to fool all the people all of the time and they are getting sick and tired having to do it, day in and day out. What they need is a good Socialist leader who will not only get rid of that pesky system of people voting for their leaders but will follow the established plan to the tee. Sure he must look like he is against those in charge but is he really? Or is it part of the deception plan that includes screwing up the Republican Party so they can't beat the Democratic candidate. Then get Hillary out of the way by indicting her on the email scandals or just because she is so unlikable and can't get the Democratic nomination. So then who is left to choose? Walla! Bernie Sanders. Brilliant, just Brilliant.
